West Hits Moscow on BerlinPlan

Polish Story Called a Plant

By John M. Goshko BONN, April 16 (WP).-Western diplomatic sources today deunced the mysterious publication of a Soviet position paper as a Moscow-inspired attempt to mislead world opinion about the status of the four-power Berlin

The incident was precipitated last night by the Polish news-paper Zycie Warszawy, which published what it described as the contents of a 12-page Soviet proposal introduced at the Berlin talks on March 26.

Publication of the text, which Zycie Warszawy sald was obtained from "Western sources" in Brussels, came on the eve of the 18th round of Berlin negotiations between ambassadors of the United States, Britain, France and the Soviet Union. In addition, the Soviet press agency Tass distributed the complete article on its Russian-laoguage wire.

However, representatives of the three Western powers and of the West German government agreed that the Zycie Warszawy text was edited to create the impres-sion that the Russians are offering much greater concessions than is actually the casc.

West German spokesman Rucdiger you Wechman said that the Polish version, "aithough not Incorrect, was incomplete and, by being out of content, gave a deceptively more positive picture than the Soviet working paper of March 26 justified." Scheel's Comment

Asked about the Polish article in a television interview. West German Foreign Minister Walter Scheel conceded that it "ap-proximately reflects the contents of the Soviet paper." However, he added, "not everything is con-tained" and it "is somewhat more positive than one cau judge the real paper to be."

U.S. sources went even further, describing it as "very cosmeticized and thus completely misleading and distorted." They added that despite Zycle Warszawy's claims about the source of the document, there was very little doubt that it had been placted in the Polish newspaper by the Russians. In Wasnington, a State Department spokesman said the U.S. government was disturbed over the Warsaw report.

Western sources said they believed that the Soviet Union had been stung by reports in the Western press describing the Soviet position as inflexible. The Russians, the sources said, apparently were attempting a counter-plor almed at making world opinion believe that their Berlin offer is fair and generous,

In addition, the sources pointed to an accompanying commentary by Zycie Warstawy, which implied that one of the Western powers had reacted favorably to the Soviet position paper. This, the sources said, is completely incorrect.

With his remarks, which he repeated ouring the course of the briefing, Mr. Zlegier seemed to be making a deliberate effort to counteract any impression that the relaxation of trade restrictions and other steps announced Wednesday were designed to influence the talks under way between the Soviet Union and the United States on the limitation of strategic arms or over the status of Berlin.

At the same time, he readily conceded that Chinese Premier Chou En-lai had been right when he said that the initiatives taken by Peking and Washington during the last few days represent a "new page" in relations between the two countries.

PARIS, April 16 (Reuters).-The French government today faced criticism from Communists, Socialists and centrists of its handling of the failed oil negotiations with Algeria as questions were raised about the strategic implications of the cooling of Franco-Algerian relations.

While predictable criticism of the government came from opposition politicians, Gaullist deputies expressed anxiety to hear more details about future relations with Algeria now that the special links between France and its former colony are being put on a strictly-business basis. Jean-Pierre Soisson, assistant secretary-general of the Independent Republican party, which forms part of the government coalition, said in a statement today that most Frenchmen were waiting for a gesture from the government over Algeria.

A spokesman for the majority Gaul'ist group in the National Assembly, François Gerbaud, said that he and his colleagues hoped Prime Minister Jacques Chaban-Delmas would elaborate on relations with Algeria in a major parliamentary speech he is sched-uled to make on Tuesday.

3 Republicans Ask About Withdrawal

By John H. Avenill WASHINGTON, April 16 .-

Three Senate Republicans have called on President Nixon to clarify what he said last week in proclaiming that "our goal is total withdrawal from Viet-

In remarks on the Senate floor yesterday, Sens. Clifford P. Case. Charles McC. Mathias jr. and Edward W. Brooke agreed that a total U.S. withdrawal is imperative and that Mr. Nixon should fix a date no later than mid-1972 for the end of the with-

They said the administration has left the nation confused as to whether a total U.S. pullont from South Vietnam and the rest of Indochina is contemplated by the end of next year.

In his April 7 address on the war, the President said an additional 300,000 troops will be withdrawn this year and that his objective is total withdrawal, but he refused to fix a terminal date

Laird Is Quoted

While praising Mr. Nixon for accelerating the withdrawal rate, Sens. Case and Mathias said Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird had raised doubts about total withdrawal. They referred to Mr. Laird's press conference Tues-day during which he indicated that U.S. air and sea units would remain in Southeast Asia after ground troops are pulled out of

"I would hope that there would be a resolution of the confusion that exists and which is most unfortunate," Sen. Case said.

Sens. Brooke and Case said Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott had been repudiated by the White House last week when he said the President had a fixed date in mind for total withdrawal. That conflict, Sen. Case said. "never has been clarified to my satisfaction."

Sen. Brooke said he prefera withdrawal of all U.S. forces by the end of this year. "But," be continued. "if the President has information why there should be a later date. I wish he would advise us why."

Case Joins on Bill

Sen, Case announced he is joining as co-sponsor of a bill by Democratic Sen. George Mc-Govern and Republican Sen. Mark O. Hatfield that would fix Dec. 31 as the terminal date for withdrawal.

However: Sen: Case said, mid-1972 would be a more appropriate time "to end our involvement" and that he was supporting the bill on that basis.

A similar effort by Sens. Mc-Govern and Hatfield to legislate an end to the war was defeated by the Senate last year by a vote of 55 to 39. Only seven Repubcans supported it, as Sens. Brooke, Case and Mathias.

Although congressional and public opposition to the war has mounted since then, a survey indicates the McGovern-Hatfield bill would have little chance of Senate passage in its present

Peking's Hopes for UN Seat This Year Seen Improved

By Henry Tanner.

UNITED NATIONS, April 16 (NYT).—The thaw in relations between Washington and Peking has convinced many. diplomats here that the Commu-nist regime has a real chance of being seated in the United Na-tions this year as China's sole legitimate representative.

The key, these diplomats believe, is in the hands of President Nixon. The administration policy on UN representation for China is under review with no officials in Washington.

If the President decides on a passive policy which—as in the past-would merely consist of opposing an Albanian-Algerian resolution calling for Peking's admission and the expulsion of Nationalist China, then Peking has an excellent chance of getting in, most observers here

IUN Secretary-General U Thant said today in New York he still believes that Communist China will not be seated earlier than November or December, 1972, despite the thaw in U.S. China relations, the Associated Press reported.

an anti-Vietnam rally." The atorney general said that one reason the FBI is the most respected investigative agency in the world is that it has stead-lastly remained apart from politics and political activity, and has concerned itself solely with threats against national security and violations of federal law."

Justice officials emphasized last night that the FBI report on the Washington rally, released Wednesday by Sen. Muskie, cootained a single sentence relating to the Maine senator. It said that shortly after 8 p.m., Sen. Muskic arrived and gave a short anti-

Birth Coutrol, Celibacy Examined

U.S. Catholic Study Favors Women Priests

By Edward B. Fiske

NEW YORK, April 16 (NYT) .-An official report commissioned by the American Roman Catholic bishops has declared that there is oo solid theological foundation for church policies banning women from the pricathood or restricting priests from marrying. Regarding women priests, the report stated that "one can safely say that there are no scriptural or dogmatic arguments against the ordination of women to the priesthood, and, in fact, some theological and pastoral reasons for so doing." On the matter of married priests, it declared that "the simple theological fact is that celibacy is a charism beslowed by the Holy Spirit and it does not necessarily coincide with the charism of priestly service." The report was written by the Rev. Carl J. Armbruster, 42, a Jesuit theologian who teaches at the Beliarmine School of Theology at Loyola University of Chi-

It is one of seveo studies of aspects of the priesthood commis-

sicoed by the bishops in the spring of 1967. Pour of them are due to be formally presented to the bishops at their spring meeting in Detroit April 27 to 29.

Studies from sociological and psychological perspectives have revealed that a majority of American priests reject the church's teachings against artiflcial birth control and believe that priests should be free to marry.

They also found, however, that priests maintain a "high degree of personal morale" and that only one priest in five would be likely to marry if given the choice. Father Armbruster's study was intended to give bishops a set of theological tools with which to cvaluate the findings in socio-logical, psychological, historical and other areas.

Some French Resorts to Cut Prices in June, September

PARIS, April 16 (AP).-Some of France's best-known resorts, among them Deauville, Le Touquet, Biarritz and Vicby, said today they will cut their prices in June and September to help stave of, a national economic slowdown in July and August.

But 54 other tourist centers, including all the blg Rivlera resorts, turned their backs on a government appeal to join in the The price-cutting resorts were among 26 that Marcel Antonioz, Secretary of State for Tourism, said have agreed to trim rates by 15 to 20 percent during June and September while offering the same attractions featured in tha July-August high season.

The goal of the program is not so much to attract foreign tourists as to spread out the tradi-tional midsummer French vacation period. Vacations are so concentrated

Rogers Vows Duty Cuts on Latin Imports

By Juan de Onis

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, April 16 (NYT) .- U.S. Secretary of State William P. Rogers promised Latin America yesterday that the Nixon administration would work with Congress to develop "an open market in the United States" for both traditional and new exports from this area.

Mr. Rogers also clearly com-mitted the administration to maintaining U.S. development aid to Latin America at a level abova $1 billion a year, which has been the annual level under the Inter-American Alliance for Progress In a statement before the an-

MOSCOW, April 16 (NYT) -A novel lbat suggests lbat many Russians worshipped Stalln in his lifelime out of oaive fallh in his infallibility has just been published here and is attracting considerable altention in intellectual circles.

It is one of the first works in years to revive mediories of the arbitrary arrests of Stalin's time and indicates that even Stalin's greatest admirers were deeply afraid of the dictator, who died in 1953.

From a political point of view, he publication of the novel signifies a possible easing by the authorities on criticism of the Stalinist years—a subject baoned in recent years as Stalin's reputation was being officially reliabilitated.

The oovel, "Troop Train," by Oleg Smirnov, the deputy coitor of the journal Novy Mir. appeared in two installments to the mest recent issues of that journal, long known as the country's moci prestigious and most lib-

Soviet Census Figures Show Great Russians Still Ahead

By Anthony Astrachan

MOSCOW. Aprit 1a (WP).— Great Russians still make up 3 majority of the Soviet populadowns of the 1970 census publish-ed today, despite the fact that their birth rate lags behind other Soviet nationalities.

If the figures are accurate, they may compel observers to soften their estimates of the explosive potential of the Soviet nationaliles problem. Many had nredicted that the Great Russians would be in the minority for the first time.

The official figures contained a second surprise for Western observers: The Jewish population did not increase. Of the 22 Soviet nationalities over 1 mil-llon, the Jews were the only one that declined.

Another significant census revelation confirmed rather than contradicted expectations: More than ha'f the Soviet people still liave no secondary or higher education, despite immense in-creases in these categories and

Mr. Gierek told the Polish party's 89-member Central Committee that he met with understanding and support when he discussed prospects for greater cooperation between Soviet and Polish industry in Moscow during the Soviet party's 24th congress earlier this month.

Mr. Gierek said Soviet officials also supported proposals for investment undertakings on a credit basis which would significantly increase prospects for Polish exports to Russia.

He was reporting at a Central Committee plenary session on the ten-day Kremlin congress which he attended as head of the Polish delegation.

Salisfying Consumers Mr. Gierek sald Poland plans quick development of consumergoods production over tha next few years to satisfy both home needs and exports. There were good opportunities for Poland to specialize in manuotent's 'moonwatch" program of facturing consumer goods and study the prospects exports to the great Soviet "Spitz Planetarhim." a relatively market, he said.

Mr. Gierek sald his discussions in Moscow covered Soviet assistance for Poland's house construction and shipbuilding industries. The Polish party fully supports Soviet views on the importance of economic integration of Communist countries and will do everything to speed up this process, he said.

Realism Urged Rapid improvement of living conditions is a basic task for the Polish party as well as its Soviet comrades, but this must be based realistically on increased production and can be achievca only gradually, he said.

The Polish leader said a decline in recent years in agricultural output, particularly cattle breeding, has led to domestic food supply difficulties in Poland, and great attention must be devoted to raising form produc-

DARIS. April 16—There is al- ductor and, when the baton flics ways something miraculous about the materialization of a movie star, the screen phantom given sudden substance.

The jaunty Jerry, a prominent American idol of French film fans, has trimmed his sails to the winds of the occasion, his initial personal appearance on the Continent. He is, he confesses, a poor linguist and a lazy scholar, so his one-man spectacle is en-tirely in his native tongue—even merci still being murky to him, He might, one feels, have made a slight concession—a single song in French—but perhaps this would throw his public image momentarily out of focus and he certainly requires no advice on the care and feeding of a personality cult. Confronted with the language hurdle, he has curtailed his customarily effusive chatter— though he is scarcely a silent version of his talkie self—concentrating on song, imitations, comic pantomime, monkeyshines with the microphone. As a sea-somed entertainer, he has few rivals; he holds an alien audience's delighted attention for 45 minutes, leaving it begging for more. Generously he returns to uo an extra number and, in a monologue, to confide his lone-liness in being away from his loyal wife—"27 years is a long time to liva with a monker"— and from his six sons (the eldest of whom has his own combo and locks long enough to tempt the parental seissors) and his mistyeyed gratitude for his Parisian

There is skill, precision and finesse to all Jerry Lewis does. He moves within the framework he has devised with an amazing spontaneity. He retrains from adorning his meat-aud-potatoes American menu with any sprigs of fancy tone, realizing that to do so would he akin to carrying fee to Iceland. He remains happily and ingratiatingly his homemade, slapstick self.

Paris Opera: French Radio Exhumes an Old Goodie

By David Stevens PARIS, April 16.—The French Radio has long played a role here similar to that of several organizations in New York that slake the thirst of opera addicts with concert performances of worthy rarities, and last night, by way of commemorating the centenary of the death of Daniel François Esprit Auber, it exhumed the composer's "La Muette de Portici" from the pages of musical encyclopedias.

And wby not? Meyerbeer has enjoyed a mild revival in the last decade, and even a complete recording of "Les Huguenots" recently. But if Meyerbeer was the epitome of French grand opera, Auber can lay fair claim to having started it all in 1828 with "Le Muette." ending a half-century in the doldrums for French grand opera and starting a glorious half-century whose style forced even Verdi to play the game—at least when he wanted to play in Paris, which was Auber beat Rossini's "William Tell" to the drav. 'y a year (though Rossini had retooled some of his Italian opera scria earlier for Paris) and Meyerbeer's "Robert le Diable" by three. For Auber himself, oddly, "La Muette" was one of a kind. In his long, successful and immensely productive life he was mainly the last great axponent of opera-comique, to which style most of his almost 50 lyric works were devoted. One of them, "Fra Diavolo," still gets an occasional produc-Wagner, no less, praised the novel realism of the atory and the fluidity and musical richness with which Auber treated it. This work of "entiraly new conception," said the master of Bayreuth, "surprises us in all its elements and all its details . . . the strong impression results not from this or that part, but from the work in its entirety." He also wondered how that ubiquitous libretto carpenter, Eugène

Scribe, had come up with such a superior book, unmatched in his production before or after. The story, based on history, deals with the 17th-century uprising in Naples against the Spanish rulers, and the death of Masaniello, leader of the revolt, at the handa of his followers who blamed him for the failure of their movement. The muctic of the title is a mute girl, the sister of Masaniello, "betrayal" by the Spanish viceroy is part of the plot. The whose "bekrayal" by the Spanish viceroy is part of the piot. The novel idea of a mute in a principal role of an opera (it was usually taken by a leading ballerine, such as Taglioni or Elssler) saved the French Radio the expense of hiring anyone for the title role. But "Masaniello" is an alternate title, and at the first performance this role was sun by the great tenor Adolpha Nourrit, whose famous head voice is commemorated in the "slumber song" that is probably the best known of the vast array of airs, barcaroles, prieres, probably the best known of the vast array of airs, barcaroles, prières, choruses, etc. spread through the work's five acts. Lest night, Pierre Lanni acquitted himself nobly in the mostly heroic part, although this tender cavatine made him shift a lot of gears from chest to head. He was ably abetted by Monique de Pondeau, André Mallabrera and Yves Bisson in other principal parts, and the ORTF chorus and Orchestre Lyrique under the enthusiastic direction of Lean Poussard.

"La Muette" was popular enough to be scheduled as the opening spectacle of the present Palais Garnier when it opened in 1875 (it wasn't—the sets weren't ready) and it vanished from the repertory there in 1882 after almost 500 performances, probably forever. Too bad—it's an oldie, but a goodie.

Painting Under Glass

PARIS, April 16.—Once in awhile, there are auctions at the Hôtel Drouot that bring to light little known aspects of the decorative arts. Such is the sale to be conducted next Friday by Raymond de Nicolay. He will be auctioning a most musual collection of 100 fixes sous verre. The phrase means, literally, "fixed on the underside of class" and refers to the age-old technique of painting a mirror image on one side of a piece of glass. One reason that this decorative art is neglected or collectors and buyers is that little is known about A. There are no books about it; scholarly research in the field is all but non-existent.

Contrary to what one might think, given the vivid colors and "unifinished" appearance of so many of them, the fire did not start out as a folk art -although many later glass paintings do properly fall into this category.

The first productions seem to date back to the 16th century—and these are rare, given the fragility of glass. In the 17th century, Italian artists, particularly from Venice, drew their inspiration from the sophisticated works of Caravaggio's school and artists in northern Europe from the 17th-century court painters in France.

In the sale is an extremely interesting com-position called "Hercules Spinning for Omphale" in a highly elaborate framework of precious wood and shell-it must have been one of the doors of a large cabinet. The Italianate scheme is sophisticated-a far cry from folk art. Yet the painting has a very peculiar quality, immensely different from that of the canvas it purports to imitate. And .. this is because a certain amount of simplification regard mevitably involved. The craftsman had to resist with the essential features of the face and to the body, then the main outlines of the landscape, and : I The lifer to fill in the empty spaces. This is exactly the everse of what the post-Renaissance painter did.

the latter began with the background and the larger areas, their added details as finishing finishing touches, the ever and note coming last. This is why the most academic of glass paintings still why the most academic of glass paintings still in the sale is a signify schematic, sometimes even sketchy is a range 17th-century "copy" of a Renaissance and managementation; but its bold design and sketchy faces

The latter is a far cry from the sort of work that the locatine masters produced.

The latter is these early first may be, they are not that by any means the most fascinating ones. In the Sth century the ischnique began to free itself issinct qualities of its own. This trend is typified and developed a delightful oval landscape with an inconspicuous monk lying under a trec. The gravish greens and browns have been quickly jotted down by the artist. He, quite obviously, had in mind the sorts of trees and houses painted by Claude Lorrain but, so impressionistic is the effect of the artist's strokes, that the work really comes closer to a late 19th-century watercolor.

The fixes sous verre were never really academic in the wrong sense of the word. There is a remarkable pair of mythological scenes, set in a gorgeous landscape, painted in the mood of David, and quite possibly inspired by him; but they have lightness of color and stroke, a lack of the heavygoing shading that makes them different,

Nevertheless the best of all the glass paintings, at least in my opinion, falls into the folk art category. From the late 18th century on, the technique was taken up by "untutored" craftsmen all over Europe—and the result was, to all intents and purposes, a new genre.

For instance, I was struck by the quality of a Santa Maria (Lot 23) lo be auctioned on Friday. The face of the Virgin is highly stylized with two red spots on her cheeks and pursed lips, glving the whole a prim, slightly dreamy look. The superh red drapery coming over the shoulder, in two shades of red, one bright, the other paler, is set off by the clear blues of the robe.

In another, much more naive work (Lot 3), the horse and doe running in the landscape are somewhat reminiscent of Gothic miniatures-provided one overlooks the delightfully artless soldiers with their red cheeks. This of course is not due to any intended plagiarism but rather to a permanent stream of innocent vision which, after disappearing from court art in the Renaissance, would appear to have survived on the folk-art level.

Thousands and thousands of such images were turned out in Spain, in northern France (particularly in Alsace and Lorraines, southern Germany, Bohemia and Poland. Comparatively few have survived for obvious reasons. Indeed, quile a few of the more charming pieces in the sale are not in perfect condition.

None of the naive paintings is likely to make very high prices. At best, the highly sophisticated glass painting of the mid-18th-century period may fetch from $500 to $700. The folk pieces will be far less expensive. Quite a few may go for $30 to $40. Yet there may be some surprises because these works are far more in tune with current taste than they would have been five years ago.
The colors are both vivid and rustic; the draftsmanship suggests ancient times and is yet impressionistic-a rara combination that makes them ideally suited for country homes.

Hesides, it is so unusual to see so many glass paintings hanging side by side that it may act as a stimulant to buyers. It should certainly induce lovers of folk art to take a stroll to Drouot.

Two of the finest works by Odilon Redon to come up for sale in the past few years will be included in a sale of impressionists and modern masters next Wednesday at Sotheby's. One is a seascape at sunset, and the other a study for a stained glass window verging on pure abstraction. There are other important works in the sale which will set the pace for the forthcoming round of spring sales.

After a month in Moscow, the exhibit will move to the Hermitage Museum in Leningrad. When the bulk of the art works arrived in the Soviet Union late last month, Dutch sources said, a bureaucratic snarl almost prevented their shipment from Sheremetyevo Airport into Mos-

The Soviets wanted to transport the priceless paintings in an open truck. But Dutch representatives objected. Finally, KLM Royal Dutch Airlines provided a van for transport of the works. Later, the Netherlands Embassy complained to the Soviet Foreign Ministry. The Foreign Ministry apparently relayed the complaints to the Ministry of Culture.

A few days later, the sources said, when a few more, far less valuable, paintings arrived in Moscow, on hand to meet them were a huge moving van, a police escort and several top officials of the Pushkin Museum.

PARIS. April 16.—The Lourre is extending itself at a pace that compares favorably with thot of the French superhighway nctwork. Last year the Povillan de Flore enext to the Seine and near the Tulleries Gardens: was opened and this year ion April 71. new gallery connecting it with the main part of the museum. was inaugurated.

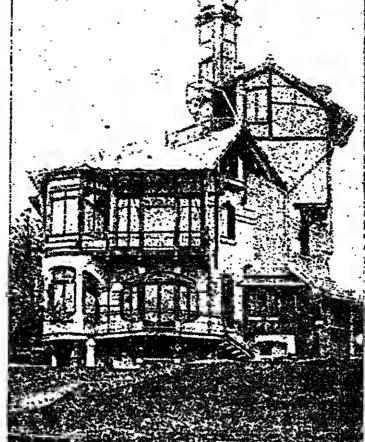

As a result, a person entering cither end can see all the exlibited works of the Louvre's European collection. (There is a separate entrance for the Egyptian antiquities.) The new gallery is devoted to Italian paintof the 17th and 18th centuries and the Beistegui collection. On the floor above this is a temporary display of works drawn from the storerooms. Flemish, German, Italian and French works are squeezed together like passengers in a second class Metro compartment. But it is nonetheless better to see them this way then not at alt. At the end of this gallery there is a temporary (to June 28) didaclic exhibition devoted to Ingres's "Le Bain Turc." This academicslly famous painting shows an assembly of nude harem ladies reclining in a Turkish bath. It is one of Ingres's typically polished and passionless pro-ductions. The work is surrounded with various sketches and documents relating to it, and also by variations and parodies it has inspired iPicasso, Man Ray, Rauschenberg, Martial, Raysse. etc.). The principle of the thing is not without interest and the documentation is thorough but it is handled with tame erudition and this restricts its usefulness to a public of students and special-

But a castle or a cathedral that grows organically over the centuries and over a cerioin acreage has a kind of poetic coherence that cannot be synthetized in an hour and on a pocket handker hief. One must certainly be very able indeed to design the intricate hits of furgiture and quaint houses that Guimard conceived, but the effect tends to be pretentious or comic or oppressive.

Nonetheless the period was one of technical and stylistic renewal, as Le Corbusier was to point out much lster, a period of enthusiastic adventurousness and innovation.

ONDON. April 16.-Den is Cannan's "One at Night," at the Royal Court, is a play about the defeat of a good man and tha clash of two world views, one passive and conventional, the other individual and questioning.

James Blanch (Roy Dotrice) wants to know whether he is mad, since he does not seem to think in the same way as the acknowledged legislators of society. He asks the question of the board of a mental hospital where he languishes for. as the authorities put it, having carnal knowledge of a girl nader the age of 16.

Blanch has refused drugs and shock treatment in the hospital maintaining his normal mode of life, testing every statement made by himself or others for its truth, and assuming that other people mean what they say and that they, too, are engaged in a search for truth. The board that decides his case is composed of modern equivalents of priestfigures-a solicitor, a doctor, a psychiatrist, and a magistrate. with a clergyman present only as an observer. When they ask fense, he takes the question seriously instead of acting out the contrition that would get him released from the hospital. A series of flasbbacks presents his past to us. His marriage to a complacent woman satisfied with the surface of things who long ago stopped listening to her husband. His love for an egocentric npera singer who gave him peace by anesthetizing his intellect, and his affair with the 15-yearold girl who was still young enough to ask questions and want to know the answers. All this should have provided fascinating theater.

But Mr. Cannan's play, worthy as it is, fails. Much of the writing smacks of propaganda. The construction is curious, too, with characters stepping out of the play to harangue the audience with soapbox oralory. The flashbacks cast little light on Blanch's character. His opponents on the review board are no more than middle-class caricatures whom he can easily belittle.

Indeed, at the end, Mr. Cannan rushes headlong into melodrama: Blanch locks everyone in a room and exposes the loveless secrets though Mr. Cannan bas a gift for ly dogged performance in the waspish invective that would do credit to John Osborne, his writing is often platitudinous aod, with its carefully balanced antithesis, banal in a terribly stagey manner.

The Jewish psychiatrist, survivor of a concentration camp, muses: "Why did I survive? Why did she have to go?" The opera singer confesses: "I make love to myself and, even when someone else is there, I'm still making love to myself," while our hero is given to occasional maxims such as "Life is a dog we have accepted, forgetting that dogs make messes." 'Maybe he should inscribe that in poke-work, as occupational therapy.

There is an off-putting earnestness about the play. At one point, Blanch is called "a holy fool," but he isn't. He is completely bumorless, a characteristic he shares with everyone else on stage, Still, the final moments are moving: Blanch finally compromises, accepting the narcotic that will drug his orain and make him as unquestioning as his judges. repertory at the National Theatre. A domestic tragedy, rarely performed, that does not live up to the reputation given it by critics from Charles Lamb to T.S. Eliot. But beautifully staged, containing a fine performance from Anthony Hopkins as a wronged husband, and fascinating in its picture of 17th-century life. "Hanky Park," Greenwood, at the Mermaid.

Another domestic tragedy, an autobiographical slice of workingclass life in industrial Salford during the first 30 years of this century, an area of mean streets and generous people, finding joy and warmth despite their terrible poverty.

"Measure for Measure," by William Shakespeare, in repertory at the Young Vic. A quirky production, giving somewhat short measure, but redeemed by Jane Lapotaire as Isabella, and Nicky Henson's swaggering Lucio.

Subversion in High Places

There is a tonic quality to Judge George Edwards's opinion for the Sixth U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals regarding the power aseerted by Attorney General Mitchell to authorize wiretapping in internal-security matters without judicial authorization. The opinion not only flatly holds that no such power exists but also offers a ringing reminder to the attorney general of the great poetulates on which the American political

The "exact question" before the Court of Appeals, as the court itself pnt lt, was: Whera the attorney general determines that certain wiretaps are necessary to protect the nation from attempts of domestic organizations to attack and subvert the existing structure of the government,' does his authorization render such wiretaps lawful without judicial review?" The government acknowledged that it had obtained information about a defendant in a federal prosecution by meane of a wiretap. The 1968 crime bill empowered the attorney general to tap talephones in security cases with the approval of a court. In this instance, however, the attorney general did not bother to get court approval. He asserted that the President, acting through his attorney general, possesses an "inherent" power to do whatever he deems "reasonable" to protect the security of the nation. The sweep of this assertion, as Judge Edwards put it, is "both eloquent and breathtaking." But, as Judge Edwards went on to say:

"The government has not pointed to, and we do not find, one written phrase in the Constitution, in the statutory law, or in the case law of the United States, which exempts the President, the attorney general or federal law enforcement [officers] from the restrictions of the Fourth Amendment in the case at hand. . . . The Fourth Amendment was adopted in the immediate aftermath of abusive searches and seizures directed against American colonists under the sovereign and inherent powers of King George III. The United States Constitution was adopted to provide a check upon "sovereign" power. The creation of three coordinate branches of government by that Constitution was designed to require sharing in the administration of that awesome power. It is strange, indeed, that in this case the traditional power of sovereigns like George III should be invoked on behalf of an American President to defeat one of the fundamental freedoms for which the founders of this country overthrew King George's reign."

The judge recalled what the attorney general appeara to have forgotten, "that the Fourth Amendment's judicial-review requirements do not prohibit the President from defending the existence of the state. Nor does the Fourth Amendment require that law-enforcement officials be deprived of electronic surveillance. What the Fourth Amendment does is to establish the method they must follow. . . The very nature of our government requires us to defend our nation with the tools which a free society has created and proclaimed and which, indeed, are justification for its existence."

Judge Edwarda took care to say that "we do not decide what the President of the United States can or cannot lawfully do under his constitutional powers as commander in chief of the Army and Navy to defend this country from attack, espionage or sabotage hy forces or agents of a foreign power." For our part, we think this distlnction illusory. Suhversion is a wonderfully ambiguous term. It can he applied to almost anything an attorney general dislikes, foreign or domestic; and if it seems manifestly domestic, he is quite likely to find in it foreign implications or at least the possibility of foreign implications. His powers, even as commander in chief, are not plenary. They are limited and delineated by a written Constitution.

For an attorney general to contend, or to europose, that sovereignty is vestad in the President, rather than in the tripartite government of the United States, is to advance a profoundly subversive proposition. Monarchs and dictators may be sovereign; Presidents of constitutional democracies are

THE WASHINGTON POST.

Beyond Ping-Pong Diplomacy

As the Chinese People's Republic moves now to re-establish long-severed contacts with much of the rest of the world, there is much in its conduct reminiscent of the similar Soviet process in the mid-1950s, the years just after Stalin's death.

That effort, too, hegan with a sudden liberalization of access for foreign journalists and other visitors long denied Soviet visas. Kremlin leaders mingled socially with Western correspondents and made world headlines with comments dropped at bucolic plenies and jolly cocktail parties.

The effect, within a very short period, was a substantial improvement in the outsida world's image of the Sovlet leadership. But Stalin's euccessors knew that more than public relations was required to reintegrate their country into the world community. They made concrete political moves: conclusion of the Austrian state treaty, conciliatory gestures toward Yngoslavia, participation in the 1955 Geneva summit conference, etc. The obvinus aim was to demonstrata that the new Soviet attitude had practical significance for easing world tension.

History never repeats itself exactly, hut there are enough similarities between the initial Chinese tactics in 1971 and those the Russians used in 1955 to justify speculation on whether Peking will emulate Moscow in moving from words that improve the atmosphere to actions that fessen specific tensions.

One area of special interest to the United States would be Peking's readiness to help speed a negotiated settlement of the Vietnam war. Up to now the general view in Washington has been that Moscow has songht to persuade Haooi toward greater flexibility at Parle while Peking has urged obstinacy, and even opposed the whole idea of negotiations.

Whatever the accuracy of this belief, Mao Tse-tung or Chou En-lai would gain enormous prestige in the West if they made some move that visibly contributed to breaking the deadlock. Is it too much, for example, to hope that the Chinese may proposa enlargement of the Paris negotiations into a general Southeast Asia peace conference on the lines of the 1954 Geneva conference that permitted France to disengage from Similarly, Peking might take steps to defuse the tensions surrounding Taiwan. Without giving up its position that Taiwan is part of China, the C.P.R. could announca an end to armed hostilities and proposa resumption of trade and exchange of persons. A somewhat similar proposal has just heen made to South Korea hy tha North Korean government, which considers itself the only legitimate goverment of all Korea.

Obviously, the United States and other countries share responsibility for making moves that will help reknit relations with China. More flexibility by Washington on a political settlement for Vietnam and on China's admission to the United Nations has long heen desirable; such flexibility would be especially useful now. With regard to trade, restrictions on non-strategic commerce with Peking should be no more onerous than those applied to the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe. President Nixon has already begun to move in that direction a weicome initiative.

Ping-pong diplomacy has succeeded brilliantly ao far; now the world will awalt more substantial moves toward better understanding and the resolution of tensions, Renewal of the Warsaw talks could provide a forum for euch moves.

THE NEW YORK TIMES.

International Opinion

The U.S.-Peking Thaw

China broke the sporadic ambassadorial talks in Warsaw and so far it has not given a date for resumption of the talks. The anticipation is that this is a tactical move. Maybe, in the opinion of Peking, the situation is not yet mature to start negotiations and a delay may help. But the People'e Republic of China has not intended to break all threads of contact with the United States and that is why it made a gesture toward the American table-tennis players.

On the other hand we must not forget tha fact that the United States counts on the split in the socialist camp, and that the attempts nf Washington to court Peking have an anti-Soviet character.

-From Glos Pracy (Warsaw). The Vatican on Music

If a group of Roman Catholic musicians get their way there will be no more walking down Catholic aisles to the strains of Mendelssohn's march. No more weddings with Wagner. The musicians think only Roman Catholics can compose music fit for a Catholic bride, which would gag most of the greats. What impudent nonsense! Rome has stopped keeping its infamous index of prohibited books. A list of lost chords would be even more stupid.

WASHINGTON.—According to well-informed ping-pong circles, the United States and China are now turning a "new page" or beginning a "new era" or something like that, but the China experte here suspicious of all sweeping clichçs.

They think Peking has decided that Washington really is going to get out of Vletnam, and that officials in mainland China want to be in on the talks about postwar arrangements.

Also, the talks on nuclear arms control, on a limited Middle East agreement to open the Suez Canal, on the power struggle between East and West Pakistan, and on the future of Japan, are all reaching an important phase, and the experts believe Peking wants to be sure that it has a voice in shaping events in this vast area, rather than leaving all this to the leadership of the United States and the Soviet Union.

There is general agreement within the Washington government and tha embassles representing governments with missions in Peking that mainland China's sudden change of tone is both hopeful and significant, but officials tend to regard the switch as a tactical move rather than a basic change in Peking's

Warning to Experts

In fact, the very suddenness of the Chinese move is a warning to the experts not to be too dogmatic aboot what it means. As President Nixon sald in his second ennual world report a few weeks ago, a new Asia is emerging, the United States is making substantial cuts io its military forces in Vietnam, Japan, Okinawa, Korea, Thailand and the Philippines; new regional economic arrangements are being made by the nations of tha Pacific basin, and in view of all this, it would be surprising if Peking wants to watch these developments in isolation.

But beyond that, the China experts are not willing to predict in the attention being paid to the with any confidence. They agree ping pong players. The sight of with any confidence. They agree that Peking would not have started smiling if it really thought Nixon was going to invade North Vietnam nr try to establish permanent military bases in Southeast Asia. They also agree that Peking's move was probably made to minimize Moscow'e influence in the postwar settlements rather than to indicate any new spirit of friendliness toward Washington.

So the watchword here is caution. The Sino-Soviet conflict may be irreparable, as most experts seem to believe, but after Mao Tse-tung, nobody is willing to guess about the mood or direction of China. He could be followed by a Khrushchev seeking easier relations with the non-Communist world, or by a Stalin, determined to restore the Moscow-Peking elliance ln a more hostlle coalition against the

Limited Guessing

Accordingly, modest short-term interprelations are about ell the experts are willing to venture. They are pleased with ths change of attitude. They are hoping it will persuade Hanoi to make the necessary moves to get President Nixon to carry out his offer of total withdrawal from Vietnam, but beyond that, they have little to say.

Meanwhile, President Nixon is being given credit here for making it easy for Peking to take a more cooperative attitude. Despite his long record of hostility toward Peking before he came into the White House, he has recently been offering them an honorable compromise and recognizing their place as one of the great nations in the world.

"In this decade," he sald in his last world report, "there will be no more important challenge than that of orawing the People's Republic of China into a constructive relationship with the world community... We see no advantage to us in the hostility between the Soviet Union and Communist China. We do not seek any. We will do nothing to sharpen that conflict-nor to encourage it.

The U.S.-Soviet Nuclear Ratio

By Joseph Alsop

out here to the rather unpretentious headquarters of American deterrent power, you find yourself endlessly reliving the Cuban missile crisis of the autumn of

At that time, the United States enjoyed a margin of nuclearstrategic power that was at least 5-to-1; and it may have been as high as 10-to-1. Despite this huge margin of superlority, and despite the wisdom and courage of President Kennedy, it is not too much to say that the leaders of the U.S. government were breathless with fear until the Cuban missile crisis ended successfully.

You find yourself haunted by these facts, out here at Offutt nearly nine years later, for two very simple reasons. To begin with, the leaders of our Strategic Air Command are not merely convinced that the huge former American margin of power has now been lost; they are also convinced that the Soviets today probably enjoy a favorable margin. of noclear-strategic power that is now on the order of 5-to-3. This is not the view of those like Secretary of Defense Melvin Laird, who say that there is now "par-ity" between the U.S. and the USSR.

Seen as Optimism

But the Laird claim of "parity". is squarely based nn optimistle rejection of important evidence. Notably, there is the evidence, firmly believed by the SAC analysts, that the Soviets already an extensive ABM defense system disguised as a system of anti-aircraft defense. The baiance of power, and therefore the margin of either side, of course includes defensive strength as well as offensive strength.

As to the second reason, the power of the American deterrent has remained absolutely stable, or has even declined, for a period

But SAC's B-52 force, for example, has declined from 600 to 452 aircraft. Many items of SAC's coulument. of SAC's equipment, including many of the strategic missiles, have reached the stage of obsollescence. Overall, in sum, has American deterrent has been conplacently neglected for years in 11112

In contrast Soviet incless

The term nical components of this Soviets power do not matter as the as the overall balance. That is probably 5-to-3 in the Sovieta favor at present, as stated above. By 1974, or thereabouts, the ball ance should be at least 2-to-1 the the Soviets' favor. And it com be much worse than that.

To see the dreadful meaning of this forecast, it is only needs

sary to think of two things. Fact think of the fear (and in some quarters, the plain weakness on uncertainty) that could be seen in the U.S. government in the 1982 Cuban crisis, when this country had a 5-to-1 margin over the 1982

The Israeli Situation Second, think of Israel Fet Israel is confronted nowadays to the instable by her surrounding Arab chemics; but by Boylet aloned and other soldiers ready to fight sit side-by-side with the Araba. The street side of the wisest men in Washington are again talking of war breaking

They will stop at 52. nothing. They will do enything a that is required to avert such a defeat if they ever take the road of renewed war. And avert ing defeat for the Araba neces-sarily means defeat, if not destruction for Israel.

In these circumstances, emplyheaded people in the U.S. gov ernment still prate about this country never letting Israel he destroyed. But because of the factors above-described, they are lying. The "never" is what makes an account them Hars. Suppose there is =-no way to prevent Israel's de- 3. struction except by a nuclear confrontation with all the advantages, the side of the Boviets, Ingress of that horrible event, the American attempt to save Israel will not the number gos beyond thand-wringing, empty and a more gestures, and United, Nations :: The twackile.

Such are the cruel realities of the changing nuclear-strategic balance. The Soviets-are clearly aiming for what the Pentagon calls a "first-strke - capability," For various technical reasons, however, there is little need to fear a Soviet first strike against the U.S. at any rate in the years just ahead. But there is every reason to Yeking

Chinese Reverberations

By Anthony Lewis interest that Washington and

LONDON.—The Daily Express, last unreconstructed voice of the empire and British xenophobia. had a headline in Chinese at the top of Page Ons this morning. Next to it, in English, there was reassurance; "Don't worry -it'e just another way of saying the Express is inside China." An Express reporter was there with the ping pong players.

The Western reaction to the eudden rays of warmth from Peking is almost as interesting, asthe Chinese policy change itself. In Britain as in the United States, thera is a gush of fascinated enthusiasm. In London, Thomas Cook & Son Ltd. has begun talking about tourist excursions, and one gentleman has written to the papers about the possible "unconscious flash of insight" in Puccini's last opera, "Turandot," which takes place in imperlal China and Includes characters named Ping and Pong.

There is of course an element of incongruity and sheer delight that superbly raggle-taggle American team entering China, with all the individual hair styles and opinions, would be enough to cheer up anyone who was afraid of creeping conformity in the United States.

The somewhat manic quality of the episode does not conceal its serious lessons. It reminds us that today, as in the days of Nikita Khrushchev, a human gestura can affect even the most frozen of official relationships. It demonstrates the unfulfilled fascination in the West with mainland China, the last unexplored country. The positive public reaction in the United States could have its most immediate impact on official Washington. For it is bound to be seen as a vindication of those in the American government who have been working doggedly, and without any real hope of seeing early results, for an improvement of relations with Communist China.

Secretary of State Rogers and Assistant Secretary Marshall Green have made the running with the policy of offering an opening to China. It has taken courage and determination to press on with that line despite strong objections from the Pentagon and, in the event, repeated rebuffe from Peking.

Those in the government who have been thinking about the problem of relatione with China during the long arid years would not take a terribly optimistic view of the possibilities even now. They know that our commitment to Taiwan inhibits any comfortable resolution of the most urgent problem, the United Nations membership issue. Wa cannot just deliver Talwan to the mainland government.

But there are possibilities by way of constructing a relation-ship. One group of American experts, for example, believes that the United States could ease the Taiwan problem by saying that ultimately we see the island as part of one China-but that means leaving it up to the Chinese themselves, those in Peking and en Taiwan, to discuss the means of reaching that end. There are various ways in which Washington could accept the unquestionable reality of the mainland government without hastily abandoning the physical existence of a separate Taiwan.

And there is one deeply serious

Peking have potentially in common. That is the maintenance The happy public feelings over the ping pong gambit could lead this President to the conclusion of Japan as a non-nuclear power. A careful, guarded American-Chinese rapprochement could work toward that end for a clear enough reason: continued hostility between the U.S. and China, at the same time as Americans etart to withdraw from Southeast Asia and the Chinese multiply their nuclear weapons, might well. make the Japanese feel they must have miclear arms themselves. These are all profound and difficult questions. The impor-tant thing is that the surface

Indiana Standard Reveals Major Find in North Sea

CHICAGO, April 16 (AP-DJ) -A group led by Standard Oil Co. of Indiana has completed a confirmation well in the Torfeit field off Norway that appearently indicates they have found the North Sea's second major oil field. It is nine miles northeast of the giant Ekofisk field being developed by a group headed by Phillips Petroleum.

According to Indiana Standard chairman John E. Swearingen, test results on the latest well "indicate the chances of having found a commercial field are good." Industry sources say test data indicates Torfeit could prove as large as Ekolisk. The well, Indiana Standard's accord in the Torfelt field, flowed at the rate of 3,900 barrels a day of high-quality, low sulfur-content crude oil Amerada Hess, a member of the group, said the first well has the potential to produce 10,000 barrels a day. This would be comparable to the output of Middle East wells and of those in the Ekofisk field, the largest in Europe.

The Phillips group will begin oil production at Ekolisk next month. The Norwegian government has permitted a test rate of up to 40,000 barrels daily through the end of this year.

MIDDLETOWN, Ohio, April 16 (AP-DJ) - Armco Steel Corp. said today it will increase prices for all stainless steel mill producis except tubing, effective with shipments April 26

The move follows similar hikes announced carlier this week by Cyclops Corp.'s Universal-Cyclops specialty steel division. The Cyclops move, which excluded sheet and plate, two major products, came only hours after the Nixon administration's inflation alert.

The alert devoted most of its ottention to the "major problem area" in steel, where o strike looks to be certain this summer unless the steelworkers get a wage boost comparable to the big packages won in autos, the can industry and elsewhere.

Armco said prices of chromium nickel grades will be increased 5.5 percent, and straight chromium grades 7 percent. No increases will he made on extras. Thus, Armco said, the actual increase on total price will range between 3 and 5 percent.

Because of generally depressed stainless steel sales, industry sources had expressed some doubt as to whether other steelmakers would follow the Cyclops move. Armco noted the last stainless price increase occurred in De-cember, 1969. Since then, the company said, costs of chromium have increased 30 percent, nickel 7.5 percent, electricity 8 percent and labor per hour 7.5 percent. J&L's Decision on Dividend No Surprise to Wall Street

By Ernest A. Schonberger

LOS ANGELES, April 16 .-Jones & Laughlin's decision earlier this week to resume dividend payments confirms an old Wall Street saying: "What is good for the majority holder is good for the minority holder."

As it happens, there had been expectations for a year among Wall Streeters that J&L Steel would resume payouts on its common stock.

The premise was that Ling-Temco-Vought—the majority holder, with 81.4 percent of the stock—needed current cash badly and would declare itself a dividend as soon as practicable. This seemed easy to accomplish, inas-much as the J&L board is dominated by LTV people.

There were obstacles, however. One was that Jones & Laughlin ran an operating deficit four of the last five quarters and would have had to tap retained earnings, a seldom-used approach and a risky one.

needed short-term working capital. It obtained a bank line of credit for $25 million—with the proviso that J&L pay out no dividends at least until Jan. 1,

This year. J&L was again restricted by its bankers from paying dividends unless they wera covered by current earnings.

The opening finally came. Business picked up in the first quarter, thanks in part to catch-up buying by General Motors in the wake of its late 1970 strike, and partly due to accelerated steel buying as a hedge against a pos-sible steel industry strike this coming August.

So on Monday, out of the 66-cent earnings. J&L declared a 25-cent quarterly dividend per

First Quarter

Merck's earnings rose 4.2 percent

DETROIT, April 16 (AP-DJ). -American Motors Corp. will repert a loss for its second quarter ended March 31, Alan Foster, vice-president and treasurer, said in an interview today.

He didn't disclose the amount of the loss. But he said the com-pany would be profitable for the first six months.

In the first quarter ended Dec. 31, the company earned $5.9 mil-lion, or 23 cents a share. In the second quarter last year, the company had a net loss of $10.067 million. Mr. Foster said second-quarter was interrupted by parts short-results were affected by the fact that the company's production ages and that sales in general were slow. He said the fiscal year should be profitable.

Other glamour issues were also weak today. Honeywell, which today reported its first-quarter profits, closed at 108 7/8, down 1 1/2. Polaroid fell 3/4 to 88 1/4. The company reported lower first-quarter profits. Xerox fell 1 1.8 to 105 3/4., and Memorex 1 7,'8 to 60 3.8.

Airline Issues Weaker

Airline issues weakened. They had been strong earlier this week because the government is allowing domestic fare increases. Amerlcan Airlines fell 3,'4 to 34 1/2, Pan American Airways 3/8 to-17 5/8. United Airlines 1 1/8 to 37 3/8 and Trans World Airlines 1 1/4 to 24 3/4.

Auto issues were mixed. Ford gained 1/4 to 63 5/8. Chrysler was active and closed unchanged at 30 5/8, and General Motors fell 3,4 to 87. Auto issues generally were strong this week, especially after it was reported that U.S.-make anto sales rose

U.S. Money Supply Growth Far Over Fed's Stated Aim

NEW YORK, April 16 (NYT). -The nation's money supply is expanding at an accelerating rate. banking figures poblished yesterday showed.

In the four weeks ended April 7, the total of most checking accounts at the banks plus currency in the hands of the publicwhich economists call the money supply-averaged $220.3 billion, up $2.1 hillion from the average for the four weeks ended March 17.

Taken at an annual rate, this represented a 10.4 percent rate of gain in the last three months. which was far above the 7.5 percent rate of increase that the Pederal Reserve System set as its target in January. Many money market analysts-and some Fed officials-believe that the money managers will have to tighten their policy a bit in the weeks ahead to get the rate of gain back down within "acceptable" limits

Short-Term Rates Up The Fed's weekly statement showed that average short-term interest rates had increased sharply last week. The hypersensitive interest charge of overnight loans between banks averaged 42 percent in the latest week, up from 8.98 percent the preceding week, and 3.52 percent in the four weeks ended March 17. The key consideration in the Fed's recent moves in boosting short-term rates has been the rapid build-up of dollars in for-eign central banks this year, and threat that, if unchecked, this trend could create problems in international money markets.

On Wednesday, the Fed held $16 billion of marketable Treasury securities in custody for forcentral banks, an increase of $63 million from a week earlier. This was the smallest gain in these holdings in the last nine weeks-indicating a cooling of the international markets after the turmoil of the preceding week -but it was still $9.8 billion higher than on the same date a year

Petroleum issues generally were weak, although Standard Oil (Indiana) gained following reports that its international subsidiary.

Amoco, had encountered an oilbearing formation in Egypt's western desert. Jersey Standard fell 1.2 to 81 1 4 Mobil Oil 7'8 to 59. Texaco 1.8 to 37 7/8 and Gulf Oil 1/8 to 33 7/8. British Petroleum stood unchanged at 11 1 4 on volume of 11.300 shares. Occidental Petroleum rose 1/4 to 20 1/2, Eli Lilly, which fell 5 yesterday, closed today at 113 1 2, down 1 3 4. At one time during the session, the issue was down 4 1 2. Lilly has reported that its first-quarter profits fell. Amer-lean Can fell 1 7/8 to 42 3 8. The company yesterday reported sharply lower profits for tha first quarter.

In aerospace issues Lockheed fell 1.4 to 12, Boeing 3/4 to 22 3/8 and United Aircraft 1.2 to 39.

The American Stock Exchange index rose 0.02 to 26.49.

Nixon Forecasts 'Very Good' '72

WASHINGTON, April 16 (Reuters).—President Nixon. huoyed by an upsurge in the country's output of goods and services, sald today that 1971 will be a good year for the U.S. economy "and next year is going to be very good."

Mr. Nixon, speaking to a group of Wall Street friends in his office, said he was determined not to indulge in gimmicks to push the economy upward but would act for solid growth.

"It would be easy to go for new gimmicks that would goose up the economy and then bring it down," Mr. Nixon remarked.

How to gain the advantages of investment management for a $5,000 to $50,000 portfolio

If the money you have today is to grow in the future toward more iocome, or for edocatioo, travel, leisure, retirement, it must be kept working full time to achieve your goals. Yet you may find that you are actually losing ground duc to inflation, taxes or lack of time for investment decisions. To help solve this problem, clicots in 55 countries have turned to The Danforth Associates Investment Management Plan. It has, we believe proved especially efficient in providing continuing capital growth supervision for portfolios of from $5,000 to $50,000-on behalf of people who recognize and can share the risks and rewards of common stock investments. The cost is modest, as low as $100 per year. For a complimentary copy of a 42-page report describing this tested plan, its complete 10-year "performance record," and how it may help you now, simply write Dept. O-47 answer, it seems to me, lies somewhere in between. Both history and human nature have their immutable laws. But somewhere they must intersect, and somehow further refinement of psychohistory, or through the develop-ment of value-free sociology, or I don't know what—we must eventually locate their interface.

While this book is excellent in terms of achieving its objective, it falls somewhat short of offering a satisfying view of men and

Thomas Powers's "Diana: The Making of a Terrorist" attempts to trace the brief chronicle of Diana Oughton, the young woman who began life in January, 1942, as the scion of a wealthy and distinguished Midwestern family and ended it years later building bombs in a Greenwich Village townhouse that blew up on March 6th, 1970. But as it turns out, one gimpses Diana only spas-modically in Powers's treatment. One encounters her now at home on the family estate in Dwight, Ill., now as a lighthearted, aristocratic girl at the Madeira School in Greenway, Va., now as a German major at Bryn Mawr. Now she is working with the poor of Chichicastenango, Guatemala, and becoming increasingly stricken by the institutional void that separates them from the rich. Now she is a graduate student at the University of Michigan, and becoming increasingly involved with Students for a Democratic Society. Now she is home on a visit. Now she is attending the SDS political parleys that gradually yielded the violent Weatherman faction. Now she is calling on an old school friend, looking wan and strung out. Now she is participating in the Chicago days of rage when the Weather people tried to "bring the war home." Now she is a mutilated corpse in the rubble of that Greenwich Village brown-

But always one glimpses her from irregular distances, and always she remains a fractured image in a corridor of mirrors. Hardly the subject of a biography

TS IT history that shapes men? Powers's book as a patchwork tob Or do men shape history? The —speculate that after having answer, it seems to me, lies some—produced (with fellow reporter Lucinda Frank) a five-part series on Diana for United Press International. Powers simply pariayed the article into a book by filling -whether it be through the in the blanks in Diana's life with a history of the revolutionary movement that destroyed her, complete with an appendix containing key Weatherman manifestoes, or that he simply mis-titled his history of political violence. Or one could argue more generously that a close-up view of Diane Cughton is irrelevant—that her personality and psychology and are out of the question of her life, that her history was synony. mous with the political moveme she joined, and that her brief life was an inevitable blosse of revolutionary consciousness. And conclude that Powers has done his job.

But in order to seeset that con- at delets clusion (which is somewhat directs british by the clusion of prior british by the clusion of the clus the unevenies of Powers's atti-of tost tudes toward Diana), one must it of the believe no avoiding it first of the all that man is purely the product pager G of historical forces not of his making, and second of all that the land of the second of all that the land of the land an awareness of those forces must place him on either side of the it car revolutionary barricades. And a feet one may still prefer to believe to that life is not so simple; that the large tory and that the variety of a feet of the presentation of the presentation of the presentation. human personality plays a part of the which are not assumptions that Powers's book satisfies.

$5.2 Million Velasquez Sent Secretly to U.S.

LONDON, April 16 (AP).—The Velasquez painting that brought $5.2 million at auction and sparked a national arts scandal in Britain has been moved secretly to the United States.

Wildenstein Gallery of New York bought the Spanish mes-ter's portrait of Juan de Pareja last Nov. 27 in London.

Sale of the painting by the Helle 8th Earl of Radnor, whose family had owned the Velasquez since 1811, angered many art lovers 1811. They thought it should remain British and be exhibited at Brit- MSGS ain's Notional Gallery.

Seaver Hurls 3-Hit Shutout To Beat Bucs

NEW YORK, April 16 (AP) .-Tom Seaver pitched a three-hit shutout and struck out 14 and Donn Clendenon'e home run was the game's only score as the New York Mets defeated the Pittsburgh Pirates today, 1-0.

Seaver, who had trouble with his fast hall late last season but said he found it last Sunday while fanning ten Cincinnati Reds, ran his won-lost record to 2-0 and extended his string of scoreless innings to 20. He has struck out 28 in 23 innings, notching at least one in every inning today.

The Pirates failed to get a runner past first base. Angels 4, Twins I

California, held hitlesa for 6 1/3 innings, roared back in a three-run eighth paced by Sandy Alomar's two-run triple for a 4-1 victory over Minnesota to stretch its victory streak to five.

Catcher Gerry Moses and pinch hitter Tony Gonzales lined singles to start the rally. Alomar blasted his two-out triple .to right over Tony Oliva's glove and scored on Jim Fregosi's single. The Angels added another run in the ninth. Red Sox 5, Tigers 3

Recgie Smith drove in two runs with a homer and sacrifice fly as Boston defeated Detroit, 5-3. at Detroit.

group of solid citizens has occanized the War Anti-Defamation League. The president of the league, C. Benneit Neypalm. told me, "Eveevone is bad-mouthing war just be-cause of Vietnam. There is no reason to be against all wars just be-cause Vietnam gave war a bad name."

"Who is responsible for this?"

"The newspapers and the television networks. They only tell you the bad things that have taken place in the Vietnam All they ever talk about is casualty figures, body counts. massacres, war crimes, bombing PX scandals. No wonder mest people have turned off on

£16.7 Million Arts Center for London's City

LONDON, April 16 (AP) .-- London has decided to build a £16.7 million performing arts ceoter amid banking and insurance company offices in the City,

The Barbican Arts Center within the famous square mile of mid-London known as "the City" will be comparable to New York's Lincoln Center,

When completed, Barbican will include a 2,000-seat concert hall as a home for the London Symphony Orchestra; a theater for the Royal Shakespeare Company; a new academy for the worldfamous Guildhall Schoot of Music and Drama: an art gallery, a cineous, a library and a concourse with restaurants and exhibition

The go-ahead to start building the arts center was given yesterday by the Common Council of the City-the 700-year-old body which rules the area-after opponents had waged a massive campaign to block it because of the

"I magine you will picket, too?" I said. "We're going to go further than that. We're going to pay visits producers, and we're going to get them to stop mentioning the Vietnam was altogether."

What if they refuse to do it?" "We'll just tell them we know where their kids go to school." "You guys play rough." I said,

"That isn't all we're going to do. If any people plan to produce a movie about the Vietnam war, we're going to make them sign a pact saying they won't mention the word 'Vietnam' in the picture.

"We also are going to have script approval to make sure that there is nothing in the film that might offend people who make their hillog from war. And we've going to demand that all proceeds from the premiere of the film go to the Military Industrial Complex Ulcer Foundation."

"Do you believe the movie companies will give in to your demands?"

"They better, or we'll throw tear gas in John Wayne's deessing room,

"You people are really uptight." "Why shouldn't we be? Everywhere you go, you hear people knocking war. They blame war for unemployment, high prices, bad housing, crioic, and the geoeration gap. Somebody's got to stand up and say. 'You've gone far enough. The next time you start knocking war, we'll put land offine in your rose bushes."

"That should make people think twice," I said. "All the War Anti-Defamation League is trying to do," said Neypalm, "is to keep people from putting all wars in the same bar, Each war should be judged on its own merits. America has had some great wars to the past. There was the War of 1812, the Civil War, the Spanish Americao War, the Mexican War and World War I. Now those were wors that we could all be proud Just because the Vietnam war didn't turn out the way we atl oreamed it would doesn't mean war is not good."

George C. Scott, right, winner of the 43d onnual Academy Award for the best performance by on octor, os he appeared in "Patton." He is the first actor to refuse an Oscar-Below, "Patton" producer Frank McCarthy holds two Oscars aloft in triumph. One belongs to the movie itself. named the best film of the year. The other is Scoti's.

By Steven V. Roberts

OS ANGELES, April 16 (NYT),-"Patton" the titunic study of a man at war, swept the 42d Academy Award presentations last night by winning seven Oscars. including best picture of the year.

George C. Scott, who played the role the World War II general, won the Oscar as best actor, even though he bad said repeatedly that he would not accept

But the Academy gave it to him anyway. Even his fellow nomoce James Eart Jones, who played the leading role in "The Great White Hope." had said publicly that Scott deserved the award, and most critics agreed. Scott's award was accepted by Frank McCarthy, the producer of the picture.

1 When asked today how he felt about winning an Oscar. Scott said he had "no feelings. I have no feeling one way or the other." Asked how he found out about the outcome, he replied: "My son called me last night: I was asleep; and he told me about it." the Associated Press reported. (Scott, bearded and in a gray suit, was walking from the lobby of a New York hospital to a nurses' residence, where he was filming a scene from his new movie

"Hospital." [He refused to answer any other questions. It was understood that the Oscar statuette itself would be donated to a Patton museum or otemorial site, but it was not known at what location.1

The third major award for "Patton" went to director Franklin J. Schaffner. For the second straight year the best actress award went to a Briton, Glenda Jacksoo, who had never been nominated for an Oscar before, won it for her rote in

George C. Scott Wins Anyway

"Women in Love." Maggie Smith won it list year for her role in "The Prime of Miss Jean Brodie."

One of the surprises of the evening was that the two biggest box-office hits of the year. "Love Story" and " Airport" won only one Oscar apiece. Hollywood has often been accused of caring more about profits than performance, but that was oot so last night.

"Patron" also won Oscars for sound art direction, editing and screenplay The award for best supporting actor went to John Mills, for "Ryan's Daughter," probably the most heavily promoted film of the year. The film also received an award for einematography. Helen Hayes, the "first lady of the theater," won her second Oscar for her supporting role in "Airport." Miss Haves's first Oscac came for "The Sin of Madelon Claudet." in 1932, which is not so long ago. considering that she bernn her theatrical career more than 60 years ago. Miss Hayes's award was accepted for ber by Rosalind Russell.

The best foreign film award was won by "Iuvestigation of a Citizen Above Suspicion." an Italian story about a police detective who commits a murder and dares bis men to find him out.

Following the pattern of the Emmys. which often honor television shows after they are canceled, the Academy gave the Oscar for best original song score to the Beatles, for "Let It Be," the last movie they made before the acrimonious dissolution of the group.

Frank Sinatra, another famous retiree, was given the Jean Hersholt Humanitarian Award for his many social service activities. including a new hospital in Palm Springs named for bis father.

As much a part of the show as any award was the procession of stars into the theater. a melange of flashbulbs and press agents and fixed smiles, trying to look noochalant.

Honorary Oscars went to Orson Welles and Lilian Gish. Swedish director Ingmar Bergman received the Irving S. Thalberg memorial award for consistent high-quality

Other awards were made for: Best achievement in chematography:

Freddie Young, "Ryan's Dangbter." • Live-action short subjects: "The Resurrection of Bronco Billy" by John Longenecker.

• Cartooo short subjects: "Is It Always Right to Be Right?" by Nick Bosustow.

Best original score: "Love Story." by Francis Lal · Best achievement in special visual effects: "Tora! Tora! Tora!" by A.D. Flowers and L.B. Abbott.

 Best achievement in documentary production (short subjects): "Interviews With My Lai Veterans" by Joseph Strick. Best achievement in documentary production ifeatures; "Woodstock" by Bob Maurice.

Best achievement in costume design: Nino Novarese for "Cromwell," • Best song (original for the picture);

"For All We Know." music by Fred Karlin, lyrics by Robb Wilson and Arthur James, Best screenplay (based on material) from another medium); "M"A"S"H" by Ring Lardner ir.
